BLOOMFIELD
COLLEGE

HISTORICAL BACKGROUND

The roots of the College can be traced to 1868, when with the influx of nearly two million German immigrants following the European Revolution of 1848, it became necessary to establish a special school for training German-speaking ministers. As the immigrants became assimilated into the mainstream of American society, the need for a special theological school diminished. The institution became Bloomfield Theological Seminary in 1913. By 1926, Bloomfield College was established as an independent division, offering a diversified liberal arts program. In 1958, Bloomfield College came under the sponsorship of the United Presbyterian Church through its New Jersey Synod, which was recently reformed into the Synod of the Northeast. An expansion program, begun in 1957, resulted in new residence halls and classrooms. The College has focused on the needs of urban life. Its relatively small size fosters and educational philosophy that stresses a personal approach to education, and with the addition of the nursing program, the secondary education program, and a comprehensive evening and continuing education program, the College continues to seek an improved and stronger educational environment. (Through its 4-1-4 plan and the Contract Program, Bloomfield offers students a fine opportunity to design their own learning experiences.)

Office of the President

February 1, 1979

Dear Class of 1979:

It is an honor to be part of your year book, share some memories of Bloomfield College and thoughts about our life together.

A noted historian, Arnold Toynbee, once remarked that"history is the mosaic of our shared memories." You are part of the history of Bloomfield College. This book embodies in visual form many of the selective memories of your class which are now part of a century of the memories and history of the real Bloomfield College.

In years ahead I hope you will remember Bloomfield as a place where your mind was expanded, your values challenged and confirmed, your goals clarified and your feelings for mankind broadened and made more sensitive.

You have given us your trust. Your alma mater has given you a Bachelor's Degree - a passport for lifelong learning. Every year of your journey it will become more clear that having today's "right answers" is far less important than asking tomorrow's questions.

Memory is selective - out of a myriad feelings and images we each create our own special view of Bloomfield. I hope you will keep your unique perspectives alive by becoming active in the Alumni Federation. Remember that the Bloomfield you support in the future will be different in some ways from the college portrayed in this book. While you were a student we responded to the rapidly changing needs of our society. The faces of veterans, women, and minorities in your class reflect these changes. Your alma mater will be strong if it can continue to change - so support your college not only for how you remember it, but also for what it is becoming.

Finally, some memories fade. Before another year passes let those who made your life at Bloomfield College special - a faculty member or administrator who made learning exciting, a person who became a friend when one was most needed - know you care with words of appreciation today.

Sincerely yours,

Merle F. Allshouse
President

BLOOMFIELD COLLEGE STUDENT ASSOCIATION

The B.C.S.A. was organized in 1868, by interested students, with the purpose of enhancing student participation in college procedure.

The B.C.S.A. projects and activities for 78-79 were to allocate money to fraternities, sororities and organizations, sponsor special events at the college (i.e. Something Different, Spring Festival).

Officers: Carl Green, president; Carmine Caprio, 1st vice-president; Walter Wolocyzgi, 2nd vice-president; Kim Williams, treasurer; Anita Lowe (not shown), secretary.

Kim Williams
B.C.S.A. Treasurer

BLACK STUDENT UNION

The purpose of the BSU is to initiate a peaceful co-existence between the minority student and the total student population and to promote an awareness of the Black contribution to the American society.

Several contributions to the social and educational enrichment of Bloomfield College by BSU were various exhibitions around campus during Black History Week, Fashion Show and Gong Show.

Executive staff: Bruce Osborne, James El, Yvonne Asorio, Olivia Jeffreys, Juliette Pateman. Adviser: Audrey Benneson

CHOIR

The B.C.C. was started to give students an outlet through which to vent their musical talents, and as an extracurricular activity to provide entertainment and pleasure.

Activities of the B.C.C. include various concerts on campus and the surrounding metropolitan area.

Advisor: Birdie Johnson
